ASU Gammage snags Impact Business of the Year honor
ASU Gammage was named the 2017 Impact Business of the Year by the Greater Phoenix Chamber of Commerce recently, in addition to being awarded the 2017 Economic Driver Award in the Small-to-Medium Business category.

Welcome new students to the ASU family at a Sun Devil Send-Off
The ASU Alumni Association partners with chapters around the country to host Sun Devil Send-Offs in the summer for new students joining ASU. Join us at one of these events, which provide new students and their families a great opportunity to ask alumni questions about their ASU experience and make friends even before they arrive on campus.

Customize your high school student's experience with ASU Prep Digital
Current and incoming high school students can pick up college credits, design a flexible full-time program that meets their scheduling needs, or prepare for a rigorous United States university experience by taking classes from ASU Prep Digital, a new college prep option where online high school and university courses converge in a unique learning opportunity for all students.

Class of 1967 celebrates golden memories at Commencement
Liz Massey interviews members of ASU's Class of 1967, who attended last month's Golden Reunion to discover 50 years of Sun Devil memories!

BONUS:
Watch former class president Robert McConnell reflect on what campus was like in the late 1960s, and how his ASU education prepared him for his career.

Sun Devil Snapshot
Long before Tempe Town Lake was imagined, back when the Salt River flowed freely past Tempe and Arizona State, these female students in the 1930s enjoyed a dip in the water on a hot summer's day.

Trivia
Show us your Sun Devil Smarts
This month's question: When did the Ash Avenue Bridge, one of the very first bridges to span the Salt River into Tempe near the ASU campus, open for car and pedestrian traffic?
If you are one of the first 3 people to answer our Facebook post correctly, you may win an ASU-themed prize.

Congratulations to last month's winners Debbie J. Smith, Aaron Kravitz, and Chase Williams, who correctly answered that Manzanita Hall opened in the fall of 1967!
